

Tattoos for Men

Sleeve tattoos are increasingly gaining fame among men nowadays - perhaps because of the escalating number of personalities obtaining this kind of body art.

A sleeve tattoo can be depicted as a body image that envelops around the upper portion of the arm, and directing to the elbow.

One of the most admired sleeve tattoos are the Japanese tattoo design. Japanese are notorious for their symbolic meaning and comprehensive designs. Not only that, they are also extremely attractive. They make a brilliant choice in terms of full sleeve body ink.

Tribal Tattoos

The most in-style tribal designs are Maori, Haida and Polynesian designs.

There is also great attention in Native American tattoo designs. The term "tribal" of course covers an amazing array of tattoo design potential, from the conventional tribal tattoos of native and aboriginal cultures, to the latest in graphic design for the body.

Angel Tattoos

Angel tattoo designs have become more and more popular; an angel is a symbol of devotion, theology and faith and signifies a connection with God.

An angel can be a figure of leadership and defense. An angel is often used as the centerpiece of a tattoo.

Dragon Tattoos

The dragon is an ethnically far-ranging character whose noticeable bad temper should be interpreted as basically amoral, neither good nor evil. Dragon tattoos are popular with both men and women.

Tiger Tattoos

Tiger tattoo designs are well-liked in both Eastern and Western tattoo genres, and have a rich history in myths and legends in many cultures. Tigers are linked with power, ferocity, passion and sensuality, beauty and speed, cruelty and wrath.

The tattoo scene is quite popular in this part of the world, too. And if you don't want it permanent, you can go for the sticker version, and that means you could try out various designs on a regular basis.

Anuj

Sri Lanka's Anuj Ranasinghe made it to the final 15 at the Mister International 2011, held in Bangkok, Thailand, in December, 2011.

Although the final round eluded him, he says he's not disappointed but glad he was able to represent his country at such a prestigious event and make it to the final 15 as well.

Anuj says he now wishes to share his experiences, with other young men, who could represent the country at such competitions in the future.

Before the staging of the main event, there were lots of activities lined up for the contestants, he said.

On day two of his arrival in Bangkok, all the participants were involved in a photoshoot. Later, they were taken in an army truck to a village, outside of Bangkok, where they distributed food and water to those affected by the recent floods.

The following day, there was a Charity Fashion Show and an Auction. The contestants did a casual wear segment as well as a national costume segment.

The national gifts of all the contestants were auctioned after the fashion show.

There was also a visit to the Suthat and Golden Mountain Temple, as well as to the Ratchayothin Century Healthy Clinic where the contestants were able to experience fat losing and facial treatments.

Other highlights included elephant rides and trekking, mountain climbing, boating, AVT 4-WD bike riding, etc.

Unfortunately, Anuj fell off his AVT motor bike and did hurt his back a bit. And this happened on the night of the preliminaries.

The preliminary competition was held in Phuket where the guys were seen in swim wear and evening wear.

The final rehearsal was held the day before the big event, and it was a whole day affair.

On December 16th, 2011, the big moment arrived. And after it was all over, it was 'after party' time for the contestants.

Of course, there was one free day in the itinerary, and the guys used it to shop.
